Winterthur to Sell Parts of Its Health Insurance Business to Sanitas

Winterthur, March 14, 2006 - Winterthur Group is selling parts of its Swiss health insurance business to Sanitas. The components concerned are Wincare Versicherungen and Wincare Zusatzversicherungen, as well as the individual health and accident insurance business. Winterthur will remain active in group health insurance. The selling price is CHF 289 million for the private insurance component, and CHF 150,000 for the compulsory health insurance component.

Edgar Filing: CREDIT SUISSE GROUP - Form 6-K

With the sale of our health insurance business, we are underscoring our strategy of optimizing our business portfolio and reducing the complexity of our operations, explains Philippe Egger, Head of Market Unit Switzerland. We have made this decision because of the lack of synergies with our other business fields.

The selling price is CHF 289 million for the private insurance component, and CHF 150,000 for the compulsory health insurance business. The takeover by Sanitas will take effect as soon as the regulators and the authorities have approved the deal. Winterthur has reached a sales cooperation agreement with Sanitas for health insurance products. In addition, Winterthur will remain active in Swiss group health insurance, where its premium volume of around CHF 367 million makes it a market leader.

With this acquisition of Wincare, Sanitas is underscoring its growth strategy and positioning itself as the most important health insurance partner in the private sector, says Otto Bitterli, CEO of Sanitas, in explaining the decision. Clients and staff alike will benefit from a long-term outlook.

Wincare Versicherungen and Wincare Zusatzversicherungen offer individual health and accident insurance in Switzerland. The two companies have approximately 370 employees.
