Lamperd Less Lethal Inc. & Starkey Industries LLC Sign Assembly & Distribution Agreement

Lamperd Less Lethal Inc. (LLLI), an international less lethal technology provider, has signed an assembly and distribution agreement with Starkey Industries LLC. Starkey is located in Fitzwilliam New Hampshire, and this agreement will give Starkey the right to assemble LLLI munitions and less lethal products in the United States and to sell these and all other LLLI products into the US and to the international markets as well - these markets have a combined annual value of over 70 Billion Dollars. LLLI in return will assemble Starkey police and security batons and related products in Canada, and market these products to distribution networks.

In making this announcement, Barry Lamperd/CHM/CEO of LLLI said "This agreement gives us ready access and national distribution to the US market without the border delays. We are very fortunate to be affiliating ourselves with a group of people who were formally with BAE Systems, and have the history and contacts in that market place. We expect that this will dramatically expand our US sales".
