RYANAIR TO SUE AIR MEDITERRANEE
OVER FALSE ALLEGATIONS

Ryanair, Europe's No.1 low fares airline today announced that it is to sue Aer Mediterranee for false allegations made in the media. Air Mediterranee have claimed that Ryanair's low fares scheduled services to Pau airport near the Pyrenees have decreased their charter traffic at a completely different airport. In fact, official CAA statistics confirm that Air Mediterranee's traffic at Tarbes has actually increased by over 70% since Ryanair's arrival at Pau.

Announcing details of the court action, Ryanair's Chief Executive, Michael O'Leary said:

Edgar Filing: RYANAIR HOLDINGS PLC - Form 6-K

1. Air Mediterranee as a charter airline does not compete with Ryanair (or anyother airline) for passengers. In common with all charter airlines it sells all of its seat capacity to tour operators and it is the tour operators who take the risk not the airline.
2. Whilst Air Mediterranee runs a small number of weekly charter flights during the Summer period only between London and Tarbes Lourdes International Airport, the total traffic carried by tour operators using Air Mediterranee during 2002 (the last year prior to Ryanair's arrival at Pau) amounted to only 5,000 passengers, which is equivalent to less than 1 month's traffic on Ryanair's low fare scheduled services between Stansted and Pau.
3. Air Mediterranee's claim that it has lost 30% of its clientele on its "route" between London and Tarbes Lourdes Airport is factually untrue. In fact the opposite case is proven by the official CAA statistics. The claim by Air Mediterranee's Managing Director, Mr Antoine Ferreti that its business has been affected by Ryanair's low fare services from London to Pau is clearly untrue.
4. The CAA official statistics (see attached) for the London-Tarbes Lourdes route confirm that in 2003 year to date traffic on the charter flights operated by Air Mediterranee up to the end of August 2003 has increased by over 70%from 4,900 to 8,500 passengers.

Air Mediterranee have suffered no damage whatsoever (in fact its traffic has risen by 70%) as a result of Ryanair's low fare services to Pau. This is just the latest attempt by French airlines to misuse the local administrative tribunal process in France to block competition, choice and low fare air travel developing at the French regional airports.

Ryanair and the Chamber of Commerce in Pau will also be asking the courts in Pau to dismiss the Air Mediterranee lawsuit and to send a message to all other French airlines that the regional airports and French consumers want to promote and welcome low fare air travel to and from the regions of France.

At a time when the merger of Air France and KLM will create the biggest European mega carrier airline, there is an even more important need for low fares airlines such as Ryanair to provide low fares, direct flights and competition to these mega carriers and also to provide local people in the regions of France and Europe with direct access to destinations other than Paris Charles de Gaulle."
