Sir Christopher O'Donnell to retire as Chief Executive - David Illingworth appointed as successor

3 May 2007

Smith & Nephew plc (LSE: SN, NYSE: SNN), the global medical technology business, announced today that Sir Christopher O'Donnell (60) will retire as Chief Executive on June 30th and as a director of the Company on July 31st 2007.

Sir Christopher joined Smith & Nephew in 1988 and has been Chief Executive since 1997. He joined Smith & Nephew as Managing Director of the company's Medical Division having previously been Managing Director of Vickers Medical Division and Vice-President, Europe for CR Bard, Inc. Since 2003 he has jointly chaired the UK government/industry Health Care Industries Task Force.

As Chief Executive of Smith & Nephew Sir Christopher has overseen two clear phases of the company's development. Initially he was responsible for the streamlining of the company from nine to the current four divisions focusing on innovative products to help patients regain their lives. Since the end of the rationalisation programme in 2003 the company has grown from a turnover of $1.9bn to $2.8bn in 2006.

David Illingworth (53), who has been Chief Operating Officer of Smith & Nephew since February 2006, will be promoted to Chief Executive with effect from July 1st 2007. Prior to his appointment as Chief Operating Officer he was President of Smith & Nephew Orthopaedics division. He has 28 years experience in the medical technology industry of which 15 were with GE Medical. He has led companies in the areas of diagnostic imaging, respiratory, and urological products, as well as heading up a technology incubator company. He is a graduate of Texas A&M University and is a member of the Corporate Advisory Council of the American Association of Orthopaedic Surgeons.

John Buchanan, Chairman of Smith & Nephew, commenting on these changes said: "During his ten years as Chief Executive, Chris O'Donnell has transformed Smith & Nephew into a focused global leader in medical devices and created substantial shareholder value. The Board thank and congratulate him for his outstanding contribution to the company which he has served with high integrity and distinction."

"We are delighted to announce the promotion of David Illingworth to Chief Executive following his appointment as Chief Operating Officer last year. His extensive medical technology experience with GE Medical and other leading medtech companies, coupled with the strong business performance he has demonstrated as President of our Orthopaedics businesses, and latterly as Chief Operating Officer, show he has the leadership qualities needed to continue the development of Smith & Nephew as an outstanding medical device company."

Sir Christopher O'Donnell commented: "It has been a pleasure and a privilege to lead Smith & Nephew and to make a positive contribution to its development. The time is now right for me to hand this excellent business to a new team. Over the last five years, I have enjoyed the opportunity to work with David and I believe his skills and experience will enable him to be an outstanding leader for Smith & Nephew."

David Illingworth said: "I have thoroughly enjoyed working with Chris and wish him continued success during his retirement. Smith & Nephew is a great company and I look forward to working with my colleagues and our customers to build it into an even greater business."

Forward-Looking Statements

This press release contains certain "forward-looking statements" within the meaning of the US Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995. In particular, statements regarding expected revenue growth and trading margins discussed under "Outlook" are forward-looking statements as are discussions of our product pipeline. These statements, as well as the phrases "aim", "plan", "intend", "anticipate", "well-placed", "believe", "estimate", "expect", "target", "consider" and similar expressions, are generally intended to identify forward-looking statements. Such forward-looking statements involve known and unknown risks, uncertainties and other important factors (including, but not limited to, the outcome of litigation, claims and regulatory approvals) that could cause the actual results, performance or achievements of Smith & Nephew, or industry results, to differ materially from any future results, performance or achievements expressed or implied by such forward-looking statements. Please refer to the documents that Smith & Nephew has filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission under the U.S. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended, including Smith & Nephew's most recent annual report on Form 20F, for a discussion of certain of these factors.

All forward-looking statements in this press release are based on information available to Smith & Nephew as of the date hereof. All written or oral forward-looking statements attributable to Smith & Nephew or any person acting on behalf of Smith & Nephew are expressly qualified in their entirety by the foregoing. Smith & Nephew does not undertake any obligation to update or revise any forward-looking statement contained herein to reflect any change in Smith & Nephew's expectation with regard thereto or any change in events, conditions or circumstances on which any such statement is based.
