Mitsui Increases Stake in Tui Area Oil Development Project in New Zealand

Mitsui & Co., Ltd. (Mitsui) announces that its wholly owned subsidiary, Mitsui E&P New Zealand Limited (MEPNZ), has entered into a Sales and Purchase Agreement with New Zealand Overseas Petroleum Limited (NZOP), in which MEPNZ will acquire an additional 22.5% interest in both PMP38158, which includes the Tui Area Oil Project, and the Hector South Sub Block of PEP38483, a petroleum exploration permit adjacent to the Tui Area (Assets). The transaction will be completed upon fulfillment of the conditions precedents, such as approvals from New Zealand governmental authorities, and this acquisition will ultimately increase Mitsui s interest in the Assets from 12.5% to 35.0%.

Mitsui first acquired its 12.5% interest in the Assets, located approximately 50km from the western coast of the North Island in New Zealand, back in October of 2003. Since then, the Tui Area was confirmed to be commercial, and a final investment decision was made in November of 2005. The operator s estimated proved and probable recoverable reserves are approximately 27 million barrels of oil, and the total capital expenditure is projected to be approximately 200 million U.S. dollars. Mitsui will ultimately invest approximately 140 million U.S. dollars into the project, including the purchasing cost and the exploration costs. The project is currently in its development stage with production scheduled to commence in mid-2007. Peak production rate is projected to be approximately 50,000 barrels per day, producing light, low-sulfur crude oil that is both high in demand and environment friendly.

This transaction will be a joint acquisition with Australian Worldwide Exploration Limited (AWE). After the completion of both transactions, the AWE Group will own a total of 42.5% interest in the Assets and will also take over as the operator. Mitsui participates in many other projects with AWE in the Oceania region, and this acquisition of additional interests by both Mitsui and AWE will further strengthen the relationship between the two companies.

The Oceania region is one of the core areas of the Exploration & Production business for Mitsui, exemplified by its commitments in projects such as the Enfield Oil Project and the North West Shelf LNG Project. Mitsui considers this acquisition a further growth of high quality upstream assets in the region, and aims to pursue continuous development and production of natural resources in the future.
