CF's Offer for Terra is Likely to Impair Stockholder Value

(1)

Per CF's estimate of Terra's unaffected share price of $32.50 per Dec 7 presentation to Terra Board

(2)

5.14x
implied

Terra
EV/2010E

Owned
EBITDA based on CF's estimate of Terra's unaffected share price of $32.50 per Dec 7 presentation to Terra Board

An acquisition of Terra is likely to impair the value of CF stock by $14.75 per share (~$880 million)

The value of the combined entity would be equal to the standalone value of CF and Terra plus synergies

CF's $32.50 estimate of Terra's unaffected stock price implies a Terra standalone enterprise value on an owned basis of $2.7 billion (1)

Implied 5.14x 2010E Owned EBITDA

CF's current proposal for Terra is notionally worth $46.05 ($36.75 cash and 0.1034 CF shares per Terra share at CF's current market price of $89.99)

Implies an enterprise value for Terra of $4.2 billion

$1.5 billion over estimated standalone unaffected value

Giving full credit for estimated synergies of $120 million represents value of $617 million (synergies capitalized at 5.14x)

Enterprise value premium of $1.5 billion less capitalized synergies of $617 million implies ~$880 million of value impairment
If the CF Board continues down its current path it is likely to impair stockholder value

effect of

offer

We think that CF has officially waded waist-deep into value-destructive territory with this bid. On a stand-alone basis, the per share value of the offer is roughly twice our $23 fair value estimate for Terra. If we include a rough per share value for CF's $105 million-$135 million in targeted synergies of $10.50-$13.50, then the border between creating and eroding value for CF shareholders would fall at about $36.50 per Terra share, based on our estimates. The latest bid is still about 26% higher than this stretch target.

Ben Johnson, Morningstar.ca, Dec 7

CF stockholders want to receive a premium, not pay one

60% of CF stockholders (excluding Agrium's shares) supported this deal with Agrium

Our offer has increased a further 14% since we increased the cash consideration

CF has consistently restructured its offer to avoid giving its own stockholders a voice

Given the extraordinary nature of the CF board's "end-run" around its own shareholders and restructuring of its offer

we remain concerned about the accountability of the CF board going forward

CF shareholders will have no recourse to prevent an undesired Terra deal from being consummated

we have heard many complaints from CF shareholders about the potential for disenfranchisement
