"The highlight of the quarter was the acquisition of Technisource Hardware," continued Lupinetti. Technisource Hardware is a reseller of software and hardware products for IT infrastructure requirements and provides professional services related to systems integration. "The integration of Technisource into MODCOMP as its Systems and Solutions Division is proceeding as planned and the company's move into MODCOMP's Ft. "We have significant capabilities in IT systems integration and follow-on services through MODCOMP's German and UK subsidiaries. We now plan to use our expertise in high-value IT systems integration and our new U.S. capabilities through Technisource Hardware to raise our value proposition domestically."
