[LETTERHEAD OF RICHARD BERNARD]

RE: NEW YORK STATE TAX TREATMENT OF MERGER PROCEEDS

We have received a number of questions from Members about the tax implications of the NYSE/Archipelago merger and, in particular, the tax treatment by New York State of the merger. NYSE has obtained the advice of its legal counsel that the New York State tax authorities will follow the U.S. federal income tax treatment of the merger. As a result, assuming the merger is treated as a reorganization for U.S. federal income tax purposes, any stock received by a Member in the merger will be non-taxable for New York State tax purposes.

A further tax consideration for Members is the New York State income tax treatment of cash distributions in connection with the merger. Non-residents of New York should be aware that an advisory opinion issued earlier this year by New York State concluded that gain from a non-resident's sale of NYSE seats would be subject to New York State income tax. It is not clear, however, whether for New York State income tax purposes, the cash distributions in connection with the merger would be viewed similarly to the consideration paid upon sale of an NYSE seat. In addition, regardless of the conclusions in advisory opinions, other tax results could prevail if these matters were litigated.

Members are advised to obtain their own tax advice concerning all tax issues, including New York State's deference to the federal tax treatment of the merger and the treatment of any cash distributions received by residents or nonresidents of New York State.

expectations of NYSE's and Archipelago's management and are subject to significant risks and uncertainties. Actual results may differ from those set forth in the forward-looking statements.

The following factors, among others, could cause actual results to differ from those set forth in the forward-looking statements: the ability to obtain governmental approvals of the transaction on the proposed terms and schedule; the failure of NYSE members or Archipelago shareholders to approve the transaction; the risk that the businesses will not be integrated successfully; the risk that the cost savings and any other synergies from the transaction may not be fully realized or may take longer to realize than expected; disruption from the transaction making it more difficult to maintain relationships with customers, employees or suppliers; competition and its effect on pricing, spending, third-party relationships and revenues; social and political conditions such as war, political unrest or terrorism; general economic conditions and normal business uncertainty. Additional risks and factors are identified in Archipelago's filings with the Securities Exchange Commission, including its Report on Form 10-K for the fiscal year ending December 31, 2004 which is available on Archipelago's website at <http://www.Archipelago.com>, and the Registration Statement on Form S-4 filed by NYSE Group, Inc. with the SEC on July 21, 2005 (and amended on September 24, 2005, October 24, 2005 and November 3, 2005).

You should not place undue reliance on forward-looking statements, which speak only as of the date of this document. Except for any obligation to disclose material information under the Federal securities laws, none of the NYSE, Archipelago or the combined company after the completion of the transactions undertake any obligation to release publicly any revisions to any forward-looking statements to reflect events or circumstances after the date of this document.
