SECURUS, INC.
NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

Note 1 - Nature of Operations and Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Nature of Operations

Securus, Inc. (the "Company") was incorporated in the State of Colorado in March, 1970. The Company is engaged in two related lines of business: the leasing, sales, installation and maintenance of closed-circuit television and related security systems and of security access control systems.

Basis of presentation

The accompanying financial statements have been prepared on the accrual basis of accounting in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

Use of estimates in the preparation of financial statements

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of contingent assets and liabilities and disclosure of assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Edgar Filing: Henry Bros. Electronics, Inc. - Form 8-K/A

Revenue recognition

Leases: Long-term lease contracts, generally covering five years, are accounted for as sales-type leases, in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. The present value of all payments due under the lease contracts (excluding maintenance and interest charges) are recorded as revenue from product sales at the time equipment is accepted by a customer, and interest and maintenance charges are recorded as income over the lease term. Cost of sales is charged with the cost of the equipment. The lease term generally covers the estimated economic life of the equipment. Rentals for equipment under other leases are accounted for under the operating method and are included in revenue as earned over the lease term; related costs consist mainly of depreciation.

Contracts: The Company uses the percentage-of-completion method of accounting for contracts for the sales and installation of security systems. Sales are recorded based upon the percentage that costs incurred to date bear to total estimated costs. General and administrative expenses are accounted for as period charges and, therefore, are not included in the calculation of the estimates to complete. The Company also has retainage provisions for contracts that are uncompleted as of February 28, 2005 totaling approximately $130,000.

The Company's use of the percentage-of-completion method of revenue recognition requires estimates of the degree of project completion. To the extent these estimates prove to be inaccurate, the revenues and gross profits, if any, reported for the period during which work on the project is ongoing may not accurately reflect the final results of the project, which can only be determined upon project completion. Provisions for any estimated losses on uncompleted contracts are made in the period in which such losses are determinable.

Note 1 - Nature of Operations and Summary of Significant Accounting Policies (continued)

Costs and estimated earnings in excess of billings on uncompleted contracts consist of amounts recognized but not billed of $81,693 as of February 28, 2005. Such billings are generally made and collected in the subsequent year. At February 28, 2005, the Company had contracts in progress of $784,632, of which $702,939 had been billed.

Operating cycle

The Company performs its work under fixed price, unit-price and material contracts. The length of the Company's contracts varies, but is typically less than one year.

Edgar Filing: Henry Bros. Electronics, Inc. - Form 8-K/A

Cash and cash equivalents

The Company considers short-term, highly liquid investments with an initial maturity of three months or less to be cash equivalents. At February 28, 2005, cash and cash equivalents consisted of currency on hand and demand deposits with banks and other financial institutions.

Trade accounts and notes receivable

The Company offers unsecured credit in the form of trade accounts and notes receivable to substantially all of its customers. Trade accounts and notes receivable are affected by conditions and occurrences within the economy and the industries within which the Company's customers operate. The Company's customer base is located primarily in Colorado and consists mostly of commercial entities.

The Company maintains an allowance for doubtful accounts at a level believed adequate by management to absorb potential losses on trade accounts and notes receivable. Management's determination of the adequacy of the allowance is based on an evaluation of the receivables, loss experience, economic conditions, and other relevant factors. As of February 28, 2005, the Company has established a reserve for doubtful accounts of $25,000.

Equipment inventory

Inventory consists of equipment held for lease or sale. Equipment is valued at the lower of cost or market, using the specific identification method.

Property and equipment

Equipment leased under capital leases, together with other property and equipment at February 28, 2005, are stated at historical cost and depreciated over their estimated useful lives, approximating the straight-line method, as follows:

	Historical Cost	Useful Life
	-----	-----
Furnishings and office equipment	$ 707,987	5-7 Years
Spare and maintenance equipment	285,680	7 Years
Leasehold improvements	43,614	7 Years

$ 20,739

Additions, improvements and expenditures for repairs and maintenance on property and equipment that are material in nature and significantly add to the productivity or extend the economic life of assets are capitalized. Amounts incurred as recurring expenditures for repairs are charged to operations.

For the fiscal years ended February 28, 2005 and February 29, 2004, depreciation expense was $28,281 and $21,742, respectively.

Impairment of long-lived assets

The Company has adopted Statement of Financial Accounting Standards (SFAS) No. 144, "Accounting for the Impairment and Disposal of Long-Lived Assets," which requires that long-lived assets to be held and used be reviewed for impairment wherever events of changes in circumstances indicate that the carrying amount of an asset may not be recoverable. The Company will assess the recoverability of the carrying cost of long-lived assets based on a review of projected undiscounted cash flows related to the asset held for use. If assets are determined to be impaired, then the asset is written down to its fair value based on the present value of the discounted cash flows of the related asset or other relevant measures (quoted stock prices or third-party offers). As of February 28, 2005, the Company believes that all asset values are recoverable in future periods.

Investment in Professional Systems Associates, Inc.

The Company owns a 6% investment in Professional Systems Associates, Inc. ("PSA") common stock, which it accounts for using the cost method of accounting. PSA is a related party to the Company providing it with an opportunity to purchase significant amounts of inventory and supplies (Notes 11 and 12). Therefore, the Company records any capital contributions when made as an increase in the investment, and any distributions declared as income. Based upon a formula book value method used by PSA to redeem the shares of former members, the Company's investment at PSA's September 30, 2005 fiscal year end had an estimated fair value of approximately $168,000.

The carrying amounts of the Company's other financial instruments approximate fair value because of their short maturities or because their pricing and terms are indicative of current rates and credit risk.

Unearned Maintenance Income

Unearned maintenance contract income at February 28, 2005, represents amounts billed and collected in the current fiscal year which will not be earned until succeeding fiscal years. Such amounts result mainly from the sale of the related leases.

Nonrefundable Deposits on Leases
-----

At the inception of a sales-type lease, the lessee generally is required to pay for the last three lease payments up-front which will then be applied at the end of the lease. Such payments are generally not refundable if the lease terminates early. The Company has recorded the payments as deferred revenue until such time that the lease ends or is terminated.

Income Taxes

The Company accounts for income taxes in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 109, "Accounting For Income Taxes". This statement requires recognition of deferred income tax assets and liabilities for the expected future income tax consequences, based upon enacted tax laws, of temporary differences between the financial reporting and tax basis of assets, liabilities and carryforwards. Deferred tax assets are then reduced, if deemed necessary, by a valuation allowance for any tax benefits which are not expected to be realized on a more likely than not basis.

Redemption of Common Stock

In fiscal 2005, the Company purchased 13 shares of the Company's common stock from an unrelated third party for a purchase price of $10,000. The redemption of common stock was accounted for as a retirement of common stock.

Advertising and Promotion Costs

The Company expenses all advertising and promotion costs, including direct response advertising costs, as they are incurred. Total advertising and promotion cost for the fiscal years ended February 28, 2005 and February 29, 2004 was $71,717 and $78,300, respectively.

Note 4 - Line of credit

At February 28, 2005, the Company was indebted to First National Bank of Colorado in the amount of $240,000, pursuant to a line-of-credit agreement. The line provides maximum total borrowings of $240,000, requires monthly payments of interest calculated at the Wall Street Journal prime rate plus 3% (a combined total of 8.5% at February 28, 2005) and is due in full on October 30, 2005. The Company was in violation of certain financial covenants associated with the debt as of February 28, 2005. As a result, the note was not renewed and was subsequently paid in full and is presented as a currently outstanding liability on the accompanying balance sheet. The related promissory note was secured by the Company's inventory, accounts receivable, equipment and general intangibles.

Note 5 - Sales of leases

During the fiscal years ended February 28, 2003 and February 29, 2004, the Company assigned various sales-type lease contracts to an unrelated party for total purchase price of approximately $1,513,000. Ninety percent of the purchase price was paid at closing with ten percent held in reserve by the assignee to be paid over the remaining term of the leases. The Company continues to be obligated to perform any maintenance required under the lease contracts. Also, the assignee retains full recourse against the Company for any amount owing but unpaid by the lessees. During the fiscal year ended February 28, 2005, the Company assigned various other sales-type lease contracts, under similar terms, totaling approximately $571,000. As of February 28, 2005, the Company has recorded retainage receivables related to the 10% reserve held back on the sales of the leases totaling $130,211.

The unearned maintenance income under these leases, totaling approximately $468,000 at February 28, 2005, will be earned and recognized as revenue over the course of the associated lease terms.

SECURUS, INC.
NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

Note 6 - Income taxes

Under allowable Federal income tax treatment, the Company prepares its income tax returns reporting all leases as operating leases and all security systems installation contracts on the completed contract method of accounting. For the year ended February 28 2005, the Company reported net taxable income, of approximately $256,000. Prior net operating losses carried forward were applied against this income. The remaining net operating losses of approximately $450,000 may be carried forward for nineteen years to offset future taxable income.

The Company accounts for deferred income taxes based upon the estimated tax liability or benefit in future years of the reversal of temporary differences in the recognition of income or deduction of expenses between financial and tax reporting methods. The principal items resulting in the differences are recognition of income from leases and contracts, recognition of maintenance contract income, and deduction of deferred compensation amounts.

At February 28, 2005, the Company had gross deferred income tax assets of approximately $353,000 and gross deferred income tax liabilities of approximately $78,000. An average graduated tax rate of 30% was used to compute these approximate deferred tax amounts. In conjunction with the subsequent sale of the Company (Note 13), a portion of the deferred tax assets are not expected to be realizable. Accordingly, the Company has established a valuation allowance for the entire deferred tax asset related to the net operating loss carryforwards.

Net deferred tax assets (liabilities) as of February 28, 2005 consist of the following components:

Deferred tax assets:

Unearned maintenance income	$ 6
Net operating loss carryforwards	4

Edgar Filing: Henry Bros. Electronics, Inc. - Form 8-K/A

The Company is obligated on a July 1984 lease agreement, subsequently modified, for its primary operating facility located in Denver, Colorado. The lease, which was extended through April 2010, requires monthly rental payments of $7,354, as well as payment of real estate taxes and other expenses on the property. Additionally, the Company is obligated on a December 1998 lease agreement, subsequently modified, for its Colorado Springs office. The lease, which was extended through December 2010, requires monthly rental payments that will increase annually (reaching $2,319 per month), as well as payment of real estate taxes and other expenses. For the year ended February 28, 2005 and February 29, 2004 the Company's total rent expense for these facilities was $148,376 and $141,235, respectively.

Additionally, the Company is obligated on one lease for vehicles and four leases for office equipment, requiring rental payments totaling approximately $3,200 per month. The leases terminate at various dates between May 2005 and November 2007.

Note 8 - Deferred compensation and salary continuation agreements

The Company is obligated under Deferred Compensation Agreements and Executive Salary Continuation Agreements with a major stockholder, who continues to be employed on a part-time basis by the Company. Under the terms of the Deferred Compensation Agreements, the employee deferred $13,840 of his annual compensation while a full-time employee of the Company. Upon his termination of full-time employment, the accumulated balance in the deferred compensation account is being paid to him, in equal installments, over a ten-year period. The Executive Salary Continuation Agreements provide for an annual retirement benefit in the form of salary continuation of $30,000 per year, for ten years, to be paid effective upon his termination of full-time employment. These agreements were entered into effective February 27, 1987. Payments under the agreements began July 1996 and a final payment was made October 10, 2005 in conjunction with the sale of the Company (Note 13).

Note 8 - Deferred compensation and salary continuation agreements (continued)

The accompanying financial statements reflect charges to income in the amount of $6,864 and $8,981 in 2005 and 2004, respectively, for the Executive Salary Continuation Agreements. The Company's estimated liability under the Executive Salary Continuation Agreements is computed as the present value of future benefits to be paid, approximately $59,000 at February 28, 2005. The annual cost of these agreements is unfunded. The payments total $36,444 annually.

Note 9 - 401(k) plan

The Company has adopted a Section 401(k) retirement plan, allowing qualified employees to contribute a portion of their pre-tax compensation to the Plan.
