INVEST NOW Important Information about your investment in GE Interest Plus Notes. This is an important update relating to your investment in the GE Interest Plus Notes. Based on our review of the final rules relating to the Temporary Liquidity Guarantee Program (TLGP) of the U.S. Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (or FDIC), our understanding is that GE Interest Plus Notes are not guaranteed under the TLGP. On November 13, 2008, GE Capital Corporation became eligible for a FDIC guarantee of its senior unsecured debt under the TLGP. Pursuant to the FDIC's Interim Rule issued October 23, 2008 governing the TLGP, GE Interest Plus Notes were covered by the FDIC guarantee. In our disclosure relating to the TLGP, we described this coverage and indicated that the FDIC guarantee might be subject to further rulemaking that could adversely affect the application of the guarantee to your investment. On November 21, 2008, the FDIC released revised rules for the TGLP. These new rules changed the types of senior unsecured debt securities that are guaranteed by the FDIC under the TLGP. As a result, our understanding is that GE Interest Plus Notes are not guaranteed under the FDIC's TLGP. The information we are presenting to you is based on our understanding of the FDIC's current rules for the TLGP. While the revised rules are stated to be final, it remains possible that further rulemaking may occur and that interpretive decisions may be made with respect to the TLGP that could alter some or all of the information contained in this notice. Further information with respect to the TLGP and its application is available at: www.fdic.gov/regulations/resources/tlgp/index.html. What are corporate notes? Some large corporations allow individuals to invest directly in their company's senior, unsecured debt through corporate note programs. About AAA Ratings Standard and Poor's awards a AAA rating to companies they define as "the best quality companies, reliable and stable. Moody's assigns their Aaa rating to companies they judge "to be of the highest quality, with minimal credit risk." By issuing corporate notes, companies can borrow capital directly from investors at a fairly low cost, while providing investors with benefits such as:

- o Higher rates of interest than other cash alternatives like FDIC-insured savings accounts, short-term CDs, and money market mutual funds
- o Investments that are fully redeemable at any time
- o Convenient banking-type features like check writing, free electronic transfers between linked checking accounts, and the ability to wire funds

Corporate notes are a direct, unsecured investment in the debt of a corporation, and so are not FDIC-insured. Unlike short-term bond funds or money market mutual funds, they are not diversified pools of investments. Because they are a form of unsecured credit, you would be treated as an unsecured creditor in the event of a default. That's why it is critical for you to evaluate the financial strength of the company you choose to invest in. The Strength of GE Interest Plus Corporate Notes GE Interest Plus is a direct investment in GE Capital. GE Capital is rated AAA by Standard and Poor's Corporation (S&P) and Aaa by Moody's Investors Service (Moody's). S&P and Moody's are nationally recognized statistical rating organizations, each approved by the United States Securities and Exchange Commission to measure the safety of securities. Using secured browsers and 128-bit encryption technology, you can be assured security is our number one priority. In fact, 128-bit encryption is one of the highest levels of encryption currently available. 128-bit encryption is the process of scrambling information (typically for data transmission) so that only someone who has the correct encryption key can reassemble it in its original clear text format. When used between you and GE Interest Plus, this encryption technology allows you to encode (or encrypt) your personal information as you send it to us. Only GE Interest Plus can decrypt it. Likewise, when we send personal or account information to you, this technology allows us to encode it, and only you can decode it. In the box below, you will be able to see whether the browser you are currently using has 128-bit encryption. If it is noted that your browser does not have 128-bit encryption, please go to the section labeled Download a browser with 128-bit encryption. It is essential that you upgrade your browser before you enter Account Access. You are currently using a compatible version 6.0 of Microsoft Internet Explorer with 128-bit encryption, which will allow you to access GE Interest Plus Account Access.
