Board of Directors of Handleman Co.
c/o Mr. Stephen Strome
Chairman/CEO
Handleman Company
500 Kirts Blvd
Troy, MI 48084-4142

Ladies and Gentlemen:

Elm Ridge Capital Management, LLC and Elm Ridge Value Advisors, LLC collectively own approximately 2,000,000 shares of Handleman Company and wish to voice its concern over the striking change in our company's strategic direction announced on March 27, 2003.

In fact, we have two major issues: 1) we are unable to understand how any acquisition intended to reduce customer concentration would be a better use of the company's capital than repurchasing its stock at current valuations; and 2) perhaps equally disturbing, is management's willingness to disregard the clearly expressed wishes of its shareholders.

On the first point, we would argue that our company's stock would benefit more from evidence that it would invest wisely than from any reduction in customer concentration. Here, we are confident that the market would reward our company's efforts to focus on those investment opportunities that offer the greatest risk-return profile. As the stock sells at about 7x First Call consensus earnings estimates for the coming fiscal year - and the fact that you ought to know more about your business than any offered for sale - we are extremely skeptical that any acquisition would be viewed favorably in this light.

We think that your concern about customer concentration is terribly off base. We would just like you to take note of what has happened in the defense industry. Faced with declining budgets these stocks sold for multiples lower than ours in the early '90s, while generating enormous amounts of free cash. And yet, rather than deploy the surplus into new businesses, the leading firms used it first to buy back their own stock, and only then to buy that of their competitors. As a result, their shareholders were very well rewarded--as some issues appreciated more than 10-fold during the ensuing decade.

While we are unable to envision a scenario where any acquisition would be more beneficial than a significant stock repurchase, we are perhaps even more distressed by management's view of its role in relation to the owners of its stock. We ask you here to review the transcript of our November 20, 2002 conference call, where caller upon caller pressed management to implement a substantive share buyback. One caller took the issue of corporate governance head on, arguing that: "I think it's important that you get more shareholder friendly or ownership representation on your board."

Thus we were encouraged by our company's February 26, 2003 announcement that it was selling its Madacy division and that the board had authorized the repurchase of up to 20% of its shares. According to Mr. Strome, "we will be aggressive in terms of buying back shares, especially in this period between the 25th of March and the end of April in order to demonstrate that we are committed to buying back shares." As a result, the shares rose nearly 30% in the ensuing two weeks, a clear endorsement of this decision.

And then, with some curious timing, we learned on March 27th, that the company is both pursuing an acquisition and suspending its share repurchase -- in what looks to be a direct contravention of the will of its shareholders.

Management has argued that they are responding to some other expressed wishes to reduce its customer concentration. Given the rather clear wishes of our company's owners on recent conference calls, we question whose concerns management might be addressing.

Our goals are clear. As our representatives, we are asking the board to properly reflect the wishes of what we would believe to be a substantial majority of the company's shareholders - to halt any forays into "related" businesses, and to aggressively buy back stock.

We eagerly await your response.
